

Choir Master Denis Lamoulère

Denis LAMOULÈRE is a choir master, a singer, a music arranger and a trainer. He learned how to play the violin during his childhood and discovered choral music during his teenage. As an adult, he taught himself to become a choir master thanks to many training courses and a curriculum at the local standing music academy of Boulogne-Billancourt.

He has improved himself with many musical and vocal experiences for more than 10 years in the Paris area where he directed a lot of groups of singers of all ages in various settings. He became attached to the choral singing in its more dignified aspects. He directs singers from everywhere to the enjoyment of the polyphonic expression through his demand of listening and understanding, singing and musicality, whatever the style of the approached repertoire.

The Choir

The « Chorale de la Mer » (Choir of the Sea) is a non-profit organisation which was created in 1990 by Janine PIOCH. This mixed choir has been directed by Denis LAMOULÈRE since 2016.

The « Chorale de la Mer » was awarded many times at international competitions and is constantly improving thanks to its rigor in the vocal technique, regular training sessions with professionals and a willing to meet French and other foreign choirs during its trips especially in Spain, Italy, the Czech Republic, Portugal, Russia and Sweden.

The choir offers a programme of varied choral music and performs pieces of music both sacred and secular, from classical composers but from modern ones as well

The choir performs during local as well as international events and festivals, it also goes to charity actions.

About 10 concerts are given every year, they allow us to exchange and share with the audience and they regularly get hearing and success

The choir recorded two CD's
« Kutsho » in 2008
« 20 years of concerts » in 2010
